

BRADFORD R. FOWLER

Brad Fowler has been actively involved in real estate development since graduating from the University of New Mexico in 1993 with a Bachelor's of Business Administration, when he immediately went to work for Compass Realty and Development in Albuquerque, NM. While at Compass, Brad worked very closely with the company president on projects that included a residential subdivision, and an office building renovation. In 1995, Brad left Compass to pursue a Master's of Real Estate and Construction Management at The University of Denver.

Upon graduating from the University of Denver in the fall of 1997, Brad relocated to Portland, OR to work for Pacific Santa Fe Corporation. Acting as Vice President and corporate officer, Brad also quickly became involved with PSF's existing commercial real estate projects, and pioneered several new projects including the Village at Union Mills, a 182 Unit apartment project in Lacey, WA , two "Class-A" office buildings and two industrial parks in the Portland area.

Brad left Pacific Santa Fe in March, 2003 and now is a principal of Fowler Andrews, LLC, which in addition to acting as primary developer on smaller projects, has served as a consultant on other, larger projects.
